

Manager Tools M Conference 2025 Datasheet

Who: MT managers and executives who want to learn from and network with other MT executives. Those who are working towards the next stage in their career and are seeking executive development. Folks who want to help both their careers and organizations progress.

Why: Executive development is more nuanced than managerial development. An executive's focus is outward, towards the marketplace, competition, customers, the economy, geopolitics, the environment, and society. Executives don't get trained the way managers do. They get coached, mentored.

Benefits: You'll learn how executives think and what they do to be more effective in their thought-leader roles. Upon registration all attendees will be invited to an instant messaging group for connecting with other attendees, speakers, and the MT team.

Cost: $3000. Includes a meet-and-greet event the day before the conference. All meals, snacks, and beverages throughout. Videos of our speaker sessions for one year after the event. As well as a dinner the first night of the event.
